
Structure and evolution of exoplanets

Isabelle Baraffe*¹

¹University of Exeter – Exeter, United Kingdom

Abstract

I will review current advancement in the modelling of interior structure and evolution of exoplanets, exploring a wide range of masses from superearthes to Jupiter-like planets. I will also present recent developments of exoplanet atmospheric dynamics based on state-of-the-art Global Circulation Model and will discuss basic assumptions performed previously in this field.

*Speaker